PRELIMINARY FINAL PREVIEW

Well, we all knew it would finally come to this – US vs. THEM for something again. Its been 18 years since we last met in anything meaningful and although a lot of water has passed under the bridge - DO whatever you can to be there this week as its THE BULLS & THE STONECATS – Head to Head...fighting to play in this years GRAND FINAL. Last week the Bulls spent there time off healing some minor injuries and preparing for battle, the last training session will be held tonight and the sessions have all been upbeat and positive but also intense as the opportunity has dawned on all BULLS, young and Old. This week at Frankston with a full side against the auld enemy it's the perfect opportunity FOR ONCE AND ALL to stamp our authority on the competition with a WIN against some quality and to give our FANS some long overdue satisfaction... GO BULLS. Remember all 21 must give 100% all day for the BULLS to succeed... Please make sure you get down and support VOCALLY and wear your COLOURS proudly... Thank you to all who have helped Clean up over the last few weeks – more helpers are required ...

Presentation Night is on Fri October 5th at the RSL – See Pup or Wally for tickets...

At 4 pm Sunday our fate will be sealed... lets make it 1 more game... and remember GO BULLS!!!

PENNISM

Seems society finally had a win over Penna... It's called KARMA. After watching and chastising his former team mates and friends whilst they picked up mountains of rubbish, after the Nepean Grand Final at Frankston on Sunday - He calmly stood drinking his beer laughing at the workers. The next day Penna developed what some might call a conscience. He came back and helped on Sunday... but we all know better. Penna was overheard saying on Sunday "This should be enough to get me a lift home and Wally and Pup off my back for a few weeks" –
No dice Penna – this WEEK is a must mate.

THE LAST WORD

- Most of this week's social news comes to us from The Roving Bull who was at the head wetting for Chris Hay's newest addition – and didn't it supply some great highlights. 1. Timmy Hirst prides himself on his intelligence but invested over $100 in the Barry Quiz game machine for no return – NOT THAT SMART AN INVESTMENT!!! 2. Simmo receiving the greatest wedgie ever by the new Dad and I Squash – he was last seen running home with NO TAIL between his legs and 3. Mick Burke, you've guessed it – Fell asleep apparently – no surprise except this time he had his own socks stuffed into his mouth and a dog licking his face – to no effect – Well done Butthead. Thank God there are no more weekends off...
- Collingwood v Cats – no lose situation for the non involved. After scoring 9 players in the All Australian Team compared to the Magpies Nil even nominated how could the cats possibly LOSE with so much of a better TEAM. The pressure is solely on the Cats to deliver... Contingency plans have already been thought of for the Cats Fans. For Wally he will be simply turning off his mobile phone staying out late and hiding in the dry area of the grandstand on Sunday to avoid any nasty incidents, Brett Kellerman will be throwing his sim card away and staying in a hotel and poor Kath Gothard has no where to go from her Collingwood Mad family – even Benny has started wearing his jumper to training – Who doesn't love September in Melbourne?

- Ok enough is enough – Saints supporters have won. Yes the BLUES STINK – we are terrible. Yes we need draft concessions, we have been poor for 5 years whilst you’ve been great... lap it up... after receiving many text messages and full verbal assaults and emails I confirm that the Blues have struggled. But I can see the light - Lets just hope we can CRUZE next year and take the game by the JUDDular ... oohh I can hear Dale Chubb’s hands rubbing together now in anticipation...Early reports suggest the Magpies will be really happy...
- Matty Jakobi is recovering well after his knee reconstruction was a success during the week at Peninsula Private. Make sure if you see Jacko you ask how he’s doing and DON’T kick him in the right knee. Get Well Soon mate...
- Chief Inspector Measham has a new look. Yep with finals around and the chance of a big crowd David has changed the colour of his hair to highlight the bounce that it deserves. Unfortunately one criminal who was been arrested didn’t seem to love the tipped yellow hair and commented that it was “like being arrested by a Meer Kat” Keep up the great work Wisha cant wait to see if you get a gig next year on the Channel 10 show about your family...
- This is it – Do or Die (Again) – either way Sunday night at the rooms for all you BULLS Supporters in what has been a fabulous year SO FAR...

GO BULLS
